

He Yankeeized His Name So Turner (Austrian Porod) Is Soaked for a $5 Fine

It's Back to Old Essex Market Where the Judges and the Coppers and Bill Bevins Are "Regular Fellers" and Where They've Had No Kick Coming Since Jan. 16—And It's an Improved Court, Even if the Auto Speeding and Filthy Chicken Market Cases Are Much the Same as Usual.

By Roger Batchelder.

DOWN at Essex Market Court nowadays, when you ask them how they are falling, or something like that, they answer, "No kick." Which, since Jan. 16, is rather good.

The grand old temple looks like a regular court. In spite of all we have said about the paint coming from the walls, etc., it is now necessary to award Essex Market the platinum derby, so to speak.

It is the best looking court in Manhattan or the Bronx. Last week a massive fence was placed in the front of the room, to keep the lawyers from talking with the reporters, and another other was made around the Judge's desk. The various bars (it makes one think to look at them) are very nicely carved. When the reporters stroll nonchalantly through the gates, every one thinks they are Judges.

And, as Bill Bains, the peerless finger printer, declared with feeling, as he inspected the new fences, "I couldn't have done better myself!"

Which is some ovation. Judge Douras was found to be dispensing justice yesterday. He called the case of Ben Turner.

"Your Honor," said the cop, "Ben was going over the Williamsburg Bridge when I signalled for him to stop. He disregarded my signals, and when I gave him a summons he called me names."

"What did he call you?" asked His Honor.

The cop leaned cautiously toward the bench.

"Bimsky blank, flop, flip," he said. "Ben, did you say that?" asked His Honor, who was obviously greatly shocked.

"Guilty," said Ben.

"Then you did say it?"

"I didn't say nothing. He gave me a ticket. I want it."

"He means the summons, Judge," suggested the cop.

"Did you say the bad words?" asked Judge Douras.

Here Ben was stumped. Every one thought that he was a native of Calais, Me., when his Yankee name was called.

"No spik English," returned Ben. The interpreter was called, and Ben declared that he had not called the cop the naughty name.

"All I said was, 'I'll take the summons,'" he declared.

"Which was very kind of you," remarked His Honor dryly. "But what did you say your name was?"

"Ben Turner."

"Where did you come from?"

"Austria."

"What was your last name there?"

"Porod."

"You might as well have made it O'Reilly or Kelley," said the Judge, "while you were about it. You made a quick change of names when you came to this country. Five dollars."

Next came a gentleman who was alleged to have had a dirty poultry shop.

"It was terrible," said the health officer.

"Listen," said the defendant. "One day last Thursday the cop hands me the summons. Every morning I clean up the shop and smoke it out for twenty minutes."

"I've seen you," said the cop. "You and your friends smoke cigarettes every morning for twenty minutes when you ought to be cleaning out the shop. That's the truth of it."

"Mr. Judge, I never smoke cigarettes. All I smoke is cubes ever, for food in the throat."

"Pro in the throat," corrected Court Attendant Goldstein, kindly.

"That is the dope," admitted the defendant.

"Three dollars," admitted His Honor.

CHIROPRATIC

FOR HEALTH

Article No. 49

There are many who believe that much of the scientific inquiry into the health problem is being conducted along the wrong lines and that no better results may be expected from any school of health thought that betrays the cause of human disease a matter in which bacterial life is chiefly responsible for practically every kind of sickness that brings the organs of man to a degenerate state. The theory that germs cause disease to a healthy body, or any part that is of normal resistance to them, is widely disputed, and members of such health professions as dissent from the germ theory produce many recoveries in supposedly germ-caused diseases without using any of the remedial or other side declared necessary to effect a "cure."

If you desire to regain and retain your health, consider Chiropractic. It is in accord with the natural law of the body. A spike in a machine will stop its movement. Poor coal makes inadequate steam. Too much friction will burn out bearings. A displaced joint in your spine will interfere with vital force from the brain, and the organs, tissues and parts of the human machine will not work right without their quota of vital force. You can recover from practically any ailment and keep your health at normal through Chiropractic adjustments.

Investigation of the Chiropractic science is courted. Opportunity is freely given for full consultation. There is no obligation to take service. Inquiry may result in distinct advantage to any one afflicted with any form of ailment which other methods have failed to relieve.

Before consulting a Chiropractor, always make inquiry of the Chiropractic Bureau of Public Information. Address all inquiries to C. B. Box 50, The Evening World, New York City.

Comfort!

Common-Sense Shoes for Women

Arrive after many Weeks of Waiting } $6.40

There are many women of middle age who wear these shoes most, or all, of the time; because—

These shoes have certain elements of comfort and service that all shoes do not have.

First, they are made of soft kidskin—almost like a glove.

They have what is called a "one-piece" back—no seams to hurt the feet.

They have broad heels, broad soles, plenty of support under the arch, and wide toes.

And there are many other features about them that help along the idea of comfort in a common-sense, practical way.

We Didn't Think

—we could get more of these good shoes to sell at last winter's price; but they have arrived at last. Sizes 4 to 9—widths C to EE. Same as before—$6.40.

LAST CALL

Caracul Cloth Coats

—for women now number exactly 25. Consequently, this small group finds itself lowered in price—to your advantage. Caracul cloth is a slightly fabric, much in demand this season; and these good coats, some with rich fur collars and trimming, have a happy way of defying snow and cold. Three-quarter length or short sports styles—belted—and lined with rich silk. Going at—

$37.50

Dresses, $10 Because—

These are odd dresses that have been left from various sales in the Pin Money Dress Shop.

The fabrics are all-wool serges and velveteens.

Reduced to $10, they should appeal to you in this way:

If you need a good dress for business wear, or practical, every day service—$10 suggests a liberal measure of economy.

The styles are good. And, happily, the sizes are such that women and misses can both share in the sale—16 to 42.

Never was such a week as this. Never such buying. Never so great satisfaction expressed by the people. And all because there never was so GREAT a sale of furniture. And the things that made it great were the things that make for greatness in everything. We had to WORK for the furniture.

There was mighty little furniture in the country. Every shop has a long list of unfilled orders. WE have. And the demand for furniture is growing. War time sacrifices are no longer necessary. There is a renewed yearning for comfort and beauty in the home. Interest in furniture has mounted to unprecedented heights.

Furniture was needed. We HAD to get it. We went to work as we never worked before (because when there is furniture to go around, it COMES to Wanamaker's anyhow)—and we GOT IT.

Our special purchases, added to our regular stocks, total

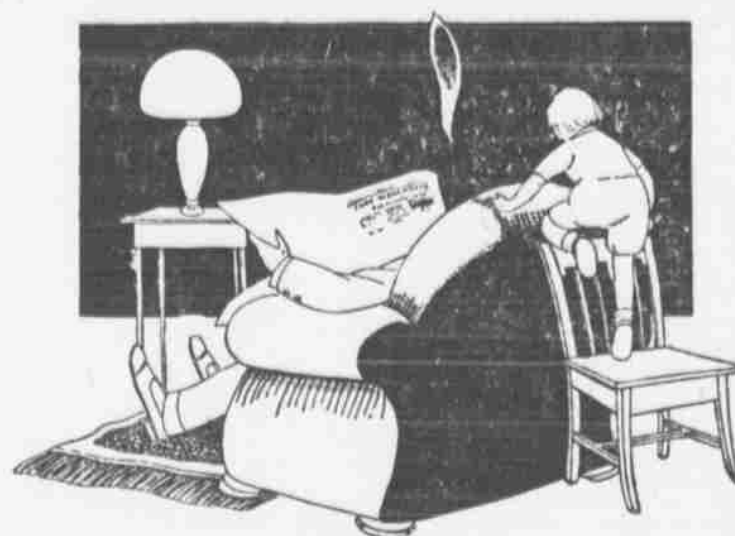

More than a million dollars' worth of GOOD furniture which we are selling at savings of 10 to 33 per cent.

The QUALITY of this furniture is the world standard set by Wanamaker's 34 years ago. The VARIETY is tremendous. It cannot be matched anywhere else, not even at regular prices. The SAVINGS are real and true. Whoever anticipates furniture needs and provides for them in the February Sale will act with prudence and foresight.

Monday there will be new lots of furniture on the two galleries. All sold stocks will leave the floor tonight.

There is more waiting to come. It will differ in style from that now on the floor—but the styles will be good. And the furniture will be the same good Wanamaker quality.

There will be furniture for the bedroom, living-room, dining-room, library, hall, den—plenty of it—in the woods and finishes wanted today.

Another new lot of

ORIENTAL RUGS

Enters the January Sale, Monday
Making a total of $59,400 (our rates)
which are to be sold for $44,420

If you are coming to the February Sale of Furniture on Monday, take the time to see these rugs. A further devaluation of industry, caused by the Bolshevik invasion of Western Asia, means few rugs, and few rugs means high prices. There are 265 rugs in this sale, all priced below present prevailing rates.

3,300 Linen Towels below wholesale cost

Monday, $12 to $54 dozen

Today's wholesale price, $15 to $60

In this group are the finest qualities of LINEN towels made—the old bleached and dew-bleached towels from Ireland, and towels from other of the world's best makers. The next lot of these towels we buy will cost us more than we shall sell these 3,300 for, beginning Monday, in the January Sale.

$12, $18, $24, $27, $33, $36, $39, $45, $48, $54 dozen.

Not many linen towels are being made today.

The yarn required for towels is particularly scarce. It behooves housewives to look ahead and anticipate linen towel needs of the rest of the year.

Handsome designs, with floral and taped borders. Some have space for monogram.
